

Why Reflective Equilibrium? II: Following Up on Rawls’s Comparison of His Own Approach with a Kantian Approach

SVEIN ENG

svein.eng@jus.uio.no

1. Introduction

2. A Kantian Approach to the Issue of Choice of Mode of Justification

- 2.1. Aspects of the Act of Justifying
 - 2.1.1. Introduction
 - 2.1.2. Every Justification Presupposes and Rests on Normativity
 - 2.1.3. Every Justification is an Action
 - 2.1.4. Every Justification is Connected with the Reason (Vernunft) of the Subject
- 2.2. Kant’s Argument for Freedom Seen as Instantiation of the Aspects of Justification Now Presented
 - 2.2.1. Introduction
 - 2.2.2. The Main Features of the Line of Argument
 - 2.2.3. A Closer Analysis of Kant’s Argument for the Reality of Freedom
 - 2.2.3.1. The Freedom Conditional
 - 2.2.3.2. Subsumption under the Antecedent
 - 2.2.3.3. Inference to the Consequent
 - 2.2.4. Some Reflections on Kant’s Line of Argument
- 2.3. Kantian Transcendental Proofs. First Part
 - 2.3.1. Introduction
 - 2.3.2. Features of Kantian Transcendental Proofs
 - 2.3.3. The Kantian First-Person Perspective
 - 2.3.4. “Making Possible Its Own Ground of Proof”
 - 2.3.5. “Transcendental Cognition”

3. Conclusion

*University of Oslo
Department of Public and International Law
Karl Johans gt. 47
N-0162 Oslo
Norway*